Nationally Consistent Collection of Data (NCCD) Parent Information

Kelmscott Senior High School is part of an Australia-wide project about students with disability and/or learning difficulties. Schools are asked each year to provide information about the number of children in school with learning needs. This collection of data is called the 'Nationally Consistent Collection of Data' project (NCCD). The school name and name of the children included in the data collection are confidential.

The project will collect information about ways we support students with special educational needs. The data goes to the Federal Level for funding into WA Education, but not necessarily at a school level.

It is important to note that as part of this project, the term "disability" is being used to describe a variety of conditions, including medical conditions. This is in line with the definition of disability, as defined by the Disability Discrimination Act (DDA) 1992.

Kelmscott Senior High School regularly collects information from staff about the learning adjustments they make in the classroom so that we can identify students we believe should be in our data collection. Parents of identified students will be contacted by letter and given the opportunity to opt out of the data collection should they wish.

Kelmscott Senior High School think it's important for everyone to take part in this project as it helps Government and the Department of Education to better provide for all students in Western Australia. We hope you think so too.
